1. Subject and Objective of the Thesis
The subject of this thesis is the regulation of financial markets. The choice of this subject is very important because of the growing role of the Chinese financial market in global world. The objective of the thesis is the comparison of the regulation of the financial markets in China and the USA. This objective is clearly defined and this thesis fulfills the stated objective.

2. Structure of the Thesis
The bachelor thesis is divided into 6 chapters including introduction and conclusion. The structure of the study is organized very well, it is logical and it is in accordance with the thesis assignment.

The theoretical part of the thesis is focused on the description of the regulation of the financial markets and its principles and functions. The second part includes explanation of the regulation of financial markets in China and the USA. The author clarifies the beginning of the regulation in both markets and then describes the history of the regulation in these countries step by step till the nowadays situation. At the end of these chapters the student presents the examples of the problems connected with the regulation of financial markets and financial crisis in 2007.

The most important part of the thesis is the Chapter 5 Comparison of the Selected Markets, in which the author explains the correspondences and differences of these markets and especially the importance of the improvement of the regulation for the growing Chinese financial market and the future development of the Chinese economy.

3. Formal Arrangement
The formal arrangement of the thesis is good; the author generally can use correct formulations and her expressing is without serious mistakes. The references to the bibliography and the pictures and tables are used properly.

4. Question Proposal
During the thesis defense I recommend to answer the following question:

- Why is financial market regulation important for the further development of the whole Chinese economy?
5. General Comments

The thesis is worked out adequately and meets the demanded requirements. The student tried to work independently and with the effort and the solved problem is important for her country. The formal arrangement of the study is good.

Overall the thesis is on a very good level and can be recommended for the defense.
